NORTH DAKOTA HOMEGROWN AGRITOURISM

AgriTourism honors North Dakota's robust farm and ranch industry by inviting guests to learn, explore and experience.

In North Dakota, more than 38.5 million acres are in production, and visitors have a growing desire to learn where food comes from and connect with authentic farm and ranch communities.

North Dakota has more than 50 popular AgriTourism offerings. Examples include:

- Pumpkin patches and corn mazes
- Vineyards and wineries
- Working ranches
- Bison, llama and sheep production, and petting farms

AgriTourism experiences also include:

- Farm-to-table events
- Farmers markets
- U-pick operations
- Food and farm festivals

NORTH DAKOTA LEADS THE NATION

VINEYARDS AND BREWERIES

Enjoy field tours and brewery discussions that highlight the locally grown fruits, grains, berries and honey. For a complete list of vineyards and breweries visit NDtourism.com/things-to-do.

SUNFLOWER MAP

Fans of the brightly colored sunflowers will want to follow the sunflower map on NDtourism.com for visitor-permitted farms and fields.

Experience savory cultural food festivals from BBQs and ribfests to the Scandinavian flavor of Norsk Høstfest, Icelandic flavors at August the Deuce, as well as German Oktoberfests and Sauerkraut Day. Visit NDtourism.com/events for more fall festivals and events featuring rhubarb, watermelon, pumpkin, potatoes, sunflowers and more! Visit the Local Foods map on the North Dakota Department of Agriculture's website, ndda.nd.gov. Over 530 North Dakota Pride of Dakota members make, manufacture, process or produce handmade, hand-crafted items.

FARMS AND GARDENS

Unique farms and gardens delight visitors statewide. The renovated Nome Schoolhouse event center is a new fiber arts classroom. Bagg Bonanza Farm and Bonanzaville preserve North Dakota's turn-of-the-century history with artifacts, homesteads, and farm equipment. Crooked Lane Farm Folk Schoolhouse and Event Center, located on the Barn Quilt Trail, is a generational family farm preserving barn quilts and offers blacksmithing, birdwatching and lefsa making. Pipestem Creek Garden Lodging and Nature Retreat, located in the central fly zone, is dedicated to birding, gardens, tours, trails, and lodging. Cows & Co. Creamery offers a bit of the Netherlands with its gelato and gouda cheese. Visit the 35-acre farmstead, enjoy the cafe, coffee and goodies.
