1883 STUTSMAN COUNTY COURTHOUSE:

North Dakota's statehood was born out of this building. Today, it is home to an immersive, hands-on experience teaching about the most basic forms of government using technology and machines from the 1880s. It also holds the state's most complete collection of pressed tin all housed in a Gothic Revival Architecture style, a rare site on the 1883 North Dakota prairie.

Open Memorial Day-Labor Day or by Appointment:

Wed-Sun 10am-5pm

504 3rd Ave SE | 701-328-1883

history.nd.gov/historicsites/stutsmancc/

Admission: Free ($5 per person suggested donation)

STUTSMAN COUNTY MEMORIAL MUSEUM

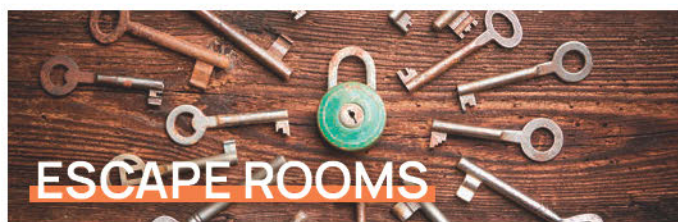

Only one block north of the 1883 Courthouse is the historic Lutz Mansion, a.k.a. the Stutsman County Memorial Museum. Artifacts from Peggy Lee to the Northern Pacific Railroad are on display, as well as a full-scale replica of the two-story gazebo built in 1883 to honor former US President Ulysses S. Grant's visit.

Hours: Mon-Fri: 10am-5pm, Sat & Sun: 1pm-5pm

Open Memorial Day weekend – Mid-September

321 3rd Ave SE | 701-252-6741 | stutsmanmuseum.org

FORT SEWARD:

Fort Seward was built in 1872 and active until 1877. During that time, it provided support and protection to the Northern Pacific Railroad workers. The Interpretive Center tells many colorful stories about the 1870's soldiers. Fun Fact: The state's largest American flag is flown here.

Spend the day at Fort Seward:

- Dress up in 1870's fashions
- Try the brand new playground
- Learn about the fort's operation
- Stay the night in one of their furnished tents

It is also home to the Stutsman County Veterans Memorial Wall.

BIRDING, HUNTING, AND FISHING

BIRDING

From Jamestown heading north to Carrington is the Prairie Pothole Region. Volunteers from Birding Drives Dakota and the Friends of the Arrowwood National Wildlife Refuge have made it easy to “flock” where the birds are. Six birding drives will take you to remote hotspots amid sweeping grasslands, rolling woodlands, wooded draws and diverse marshlands.

ARROWWOOD NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE COMPLEX

Chase Lake and Arrowwood National Wildlife Refuges provides 75,000 acres for birding. Chase Lake is home to one of the largest American White Pelican mating colonies in North America. The Arrowwood Refuge Headquarters provides a number of services including a visitor center, a 5½ mile auto tour, view blinds for the dancing of the sharp-tailed grouse in early May, and several nature and hiking trails.

For more information, call 701-285-3341 or go to fws.gov/refuge/Arrowwood
Open Monday through Friday, 9am to 4pm.

BIRDING DRIVES DAKOTA

This group of community volunteers coordinates the 300 miles of signed drives. For more details, go to birdingdrives.com.

Order the brochure at birdjamestown.com and check off 320 species from your life list including:

Ferruginous Hawk; Sprague's Pipit; Gray Partridge; Sharp-tailed Grouse; Chestnut-Collared Longspur; Baird's Sparrow; LeConte's Sparrow; Nelson's Sparrow; Yellow Rail
birdingdrives.com

FISHING

Superior prospects for perch, pike, walleye, and others characterize North Dakota fishing. On the north edge of town, close to all the amenities, the Jamestown Reservoir and Pipestem Dam and Lake are the most developed fishing areas. Spiritwood Lake (fifteen miles northeast) is a close runner up. For a truly off-the-beaten-path experience, there are other options.

If you're looking for local rods, bait, and tackle, head to Gun & Reel Sports at 115 1st St W in Jamestown. They have a wide selection of gear for hunting, fishing, and sporting goods!

HUNTING

Stutsman County has great prospects for waterfowl, deer, and upland game hunting. Pipestem Lake, Jamestown Reservoir and Arrowwood National Wildlife Refuge have lands that are open to the public. The North Dakota Game and Fish Department can provide information on Conservation PLOTS and licensing.
