BIRDING, HUNTING, AND FISHING

BIRDING

From Jamestown heading north to Carrington is the Prairie and Pothole Region. Volunteers from Birding Drives Dakota and the Friends of the Arrowwood National Wildlife Refuge have made it easy to go where the birds are. Six birding drives will take you to remote hotspots amid sweeping grasslands, rolling woodlands, wooded draws, and diverse marshlands.

ARROWWOOD NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE COMPLEX

Chase Lake and Arrowwood National Wildlife Refuges provides 75,000 acres for birding. Chase Lake is home to one of the largest American White Pelican mating colonies in North America.

The Arrowwood Refuge Headquarters provides several visitor services including a visitor center, a 5 ½ mile auto tour, view blinds for the dancing of the sharp-tailed grouse in early May, as well as several nature and hiking trails.

For more information, call 701-285-3341 or go to fws.gov/refuge/Arrowwood. Open Monday through Friday, 9am to 4pm.

BIRDING DRIVES DAKOTA

This group of community volunteers coordinates the 300 miles of signed drives. For more details go to birdingdrives.com.

Order the brochure at birdjamestown.com and check off 320 species from your life list including:

Ferruginous Hawk; Sprague's Pipit; Gray Partridge; Sharp-tailed Grouse; Chestnut-Collared Longspur; Baird's Sparrow; LeConte's Sparrow; Nelson's Sparrow; Yellow Rail

FISHING

Superior prospects for perch, pike, walleye, and others characterize North Dakota fishing. On the north edge of town, close to all the amenities, the Jamestown Reservoir and Pipestem Dam and Lake are the most developed fishing areas. Spiritwood Lake (fifteen miles northeast) is a close runner up. For a truly off-the-beaten-path experience, there are other options.

HUNTING

Stutsman County has great prospects for waterfowl, deer, and upland game hunting. Pipestem Lake, Jamestown Reservoir and Arrowwood National Wildlife Refuge have lands that are open to the public. The North Dakota Game and Fish Department can provide information on Conservation PLOTS and licensing.
